WORK IN A SWEAT SHOP.

How It Is Conducted in Chicago Th The Chicago sweat shop is a pla where, separate from the tailoring elothing warehouse, a sweater dleman) assembles journeymen tailors and needlewomen, to work under his supervision. He takes a cheap room approvision. center, and within the neighborhood where the work people live. This is rect saved to the employer and time and travel to the employed. The men can and do work more hours than was possible under the centralized system, and their wives and children can help, especially when, as is often done, the garments are taken home to "finish." (Even mains undone after the machine had done its work, and consists of "felling the waist and leg-end of trousers (pa at 1% cents a pair), and, in short, all the "felling" necessary on every gas-ment of any kind. For this service, at the prices paid, they cannot, according to Scribner, earn more than 25 cents t, 40 cents a day, and the work is largely done by Italian, Polish and Bohemias women and girls. The entire number of persons employed in these vocations may be stated at 5,000 men (of whom 800 are Jews), and from 20,000 to 23,000 women and children. The wages are reckoned by "piecework," and (outside the "finishing") run about as follows: Girls, handsewers, earn nothing for the first month, then as unskilled workers they get $1 to $1.50 a week, $8 a week, and as skilled workers, 86 a week. The first named class constitute 50 per cent. of all, the second 80 per cent, and the last 20 per cent. In the general work men are only employed to do buttonholing and pressing, and their earnings are as follows: "Pressers," $8 to $12 a week; "underpressers," $4 to $7. Cloak operators earn $8 to $12 a week. Four-fifths of the sewing machines are furnished by the "sweaters" (middlemen); also needles, thread and wax.

AN ODD CREATURE.

The Laughing Jackses and Its Peculiar

The great oddity at the Golden Gate park, San Francisco, is the laughing jackass, which has an spartment all to himself. He doesn't look a bit like a humorist, but he looks so homely and cocks his head in such a strangely solemn way that everybody laughs at seeing him. Some of the park employes caught a slim little snake two feet long one afternoon and it was thrown alive into the laughing jackass big cage. The bird pounced on the snake with a thrill of joy in his heart, and, grabbing it behind the head, he quickly thrashed the life out of it against the sides of the cage.

Then he started in at the snake's head and swallowed it all. After giving a few extra swallows of satisfaction he expressed his thanks with a hoarse, loud "Ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha!" that was about as musical as his physiog-nomy is beautiful. Superintendent Mc-Laren was visibly touched by the lone-ly bird's gratitude for an act of kindness. Next to snakes the laughing jackass likes lizards. As the park funds hardly warrant getting him a daily supply of delicious reptiles he esually has to put up with chunks of fresh most and

In Australia, where laughing jack-mass generally do as they please, they bird will pounce down on one like hawk, grab it back of the head and quickly rise to a considerable height, when he will let the snake drop to the ground. The snake will be stunned by the fall and will no sooner strike the ground than the laughing jacknes t thrashing it about preparatory to speedy meal. The bird is there ofter called the "squatter's clock," because at six o'clock every evening they every-where set up a concert of "Ha! ha! ha!"

AS IT IS IN INDIA.

The Indian papers report that some time since, in the neighborhood of Fyzabad, a man of the Ahir, or cowherd caste, was carrying a young call home on his shoulders, when by some secident it slipped down and broke its neck. The Brahmins declared him to be outcast and sentenced him to the severest form of Hindoo excommunica tion for six months. They further told him that he could not have com a greater sin than causing the death o a cow, but, taking into consideratio that he was an uneducated man, they had dealt very leniently with him During the period of excommunication he was ordered to lead a life of mendicancy and with a rope round his neck and a portion of the calf's tail on his shoulders he was to perform pil-grimages to different Hindoo shrines. The members of his family were forbidden to supply him with either shelter or food under a penalty of undergoing similar excommunication. The Ahir recently returned to his village, but until the purification ceremonies are over he must live in a temporary grassthatched house which has been erected for his residence. It remains for a man of one of the lowest and most degraded castes to purify him. A barber, after shaving the delinquent and paring the nails of his hends and toes, will make over the hair and nails to the low caste attendant, who will burn them and also set fire to the hut. After this the Ahir, being covered with cow-dung, will take a plunge into the river Sarju and come out purified. But his troubles are ever then by no means at an end. After be has feasted fifty Brahmins and one hundred of his brethren he will be re admitted into caste-fellowship.

A Sugar Hoarder. A man living in Burke, Vt., has saved all the maple sugar he has made in the last fifty years, having now on hand a considerable quantity of the boiling of 1842 and his entire crop of every year since, the whole aggregating 10,000 pounds. It is all stirred sugar and has kept perfectly. Nobody knows why he hoards the sugar and he offers no su planation.
